Mannau o ddiddordeb

Mae Amgueddfa Lloyd George ① yng nghanol Llanystumdw y. Y pentref hwn a'i ddiwylliant rhyddfrydol, anghyddfurfiol, Cymraeg a roddodd wreiddiau a diwylliant i'r arweinydd a fu'n un o wleidyddion dylanwadol y Rhyfel Byd Cyntaf a Gwrthryfel Iwerddon. Mae'r amgueddfa yn cofnodi'i yrfa a rhan ohoni yw'r tŷ teras Highgate, cartref a gweithdy ei ewythr, Richard Lloyd, a'r man lle cafodd y darpar brifweinidog ei fagu.

Gerllaw mae Neuadd y Pentref ②. Codwyd y neuadd yn 1912 drwy rodd gan Lloyd George, sef yr arian a enillodd mewn achos enlib. Bu'r seremoni agoriadol yn un ddramatig gan i aelodau o fudiad y suffragettes fanteisio ar y cyfre i hyrwyddo eu brwydr dros bleidlais i ferched.

Mae aber afon Dwyfor ③ yn lle da i gadw llygad ar fyd natur. Daw adar mudol, tymhorol yma, bydd ambell eog yn neidio yn yr afon yn niwed y haf ac efallai y cewch gip ar ddyfri yma.

Canolfan Ysgrifennu sydd wedi'i leoli yn Nhŷ Newydd ④ erbyn hyn. Codwyd y tŷ yn wreiddiol gan Lloyd George ac mae'n enghraift nodedig o waith y pensaer Clough Williams-Ellis (sylfaenydd Portmeirion). Yn 1990, trosglwyddwyd yr eiddo ar gyfer ei ddefnyddio fel canolfan cyrsiau preswyl llenyddol a chreadigol.

Mae gwaith cerrig crefftus o gwmpas Bedd Lloyd George ⑤ uwch afon Dwyfor. Cafodd y cyn-brifweinidog, Arglwydd Dwyfor erbyn hynny, ei ddymuniad o gael ei gladdu ar y safle hwn uwch afon bro ei febyd. Cylluniwyd y gofeb gan Clough Williams-Ellis ac mae'n cynnwys telyneg ac englyn gan feirdd lleol.

Mae Llanystumdw y hefyd yn enwog fel cartref Wil Sam ⑥. Dramodydd, sgwenwr a chwmniwr difyr a ffraeth oedd Wil Sam (W. S. Jones). Mae'i lun ar wal Tafarn y Plu a chynhelir gŵyl flynyddol yma i gofio am ei gyfraniad. Cafodd ei eni (yn 1920) a'i fagu'n Nhŷ'n Llan ger y bont a'r eglwys, a bu'n cadw garej y Crown gerllaw. Gyda'i prawd, Elis Gwyn, ffurfiodd Theatr y Gegin yng Nghriccieth ac mae'r rhan fwyaf o Gymry yn ei gofio o hyd fel 'tad' Ifas y Tryc.

Llanystumdwy is a charming little village on the banks of the river Dwyfor, and is the starting point of this walk which takes us through farmland to the Dwyfor estuary and its panoramic views of Tremadog Bay and the mountains. On our return, we visit the upper part of the village with its interesting houses and enjoy the area's links with the politician, David Lloyd George.

Walk directions

From the car park, go to the village's main road, turning right in the direction of Pwllheli. Not far from the bridge, follow the path behind the Britannia terrace on your left. After leaving the village gardens, you will cross the A497 and continue along the Aberkin farm road. Go past the farmhouse and turn left, then through the fields and across the railway to the river Dwyfor and the coast. The path follows the river towards the estuary before turning back through farmland and returning towards the village. After crossing the A497 for the second time, there is a short ascent in the sloping field to Tŷ Newydd and its interesting architecture. Then continue down the hill and follow the course of the river again back to the main road of Llanystumdwy. Turn left back towards the car park/bus stop.

Points of interest

The Lloyd George Museum ① is located in the centre of Llanystumdwy. The village, with its nonconformist Welsh liberal tradition, gave the leader, who was one of most influential politicians of the First World War and the Irish Rebellion, his roots and culture. A record of his career can be seen in the museum, which also includes a terraced house named Highgate, home and workshop of his uncle, Richard Lloyd, and where the future prime minister was brought up.

Nearby is the Village Hall ②. Built in 1912 by means of a donation from Lloyd George with money he won in a libel case, the opening ceremony was dramatic, as members of the suffragette movement decided to take advantage of the situation to promote their battle for women's right to vote.

The Dwyfor river estuary ③ is a good spot to watch the wildlife. It's a popular spot for migrant seasonal birds, one or two salmon can be seen leaping in the river at the end of summer and you may well spot some otters here.

Tŷ Newydd ④ is now home to a Writing Centre. The house was originally built by Lloyd George and is a noted example of the work of the architect Clough Williams-Ellis (founder of the Portmeirion village). In 1990, the property was transferred in order to be used as a centre for residential literary and creative courses.

Skilled stonework can be seen around Lloyd George's Grave ⑤ above the river Dwyfor. The former prime minister, by then Lord Dwyfor, was granted his wish of being buried on this site above the river of his childhood home. The memorial was designed by Clough Williams-Ellis and displays a 'telyneg' and an 'englyn' (Welsh verse forms) by local poets.

Llanystumdwy is also famous as the home of Wil Sam ⑥, a playwright, a writer and an interesting and witty companion. His picture is displayed on the wall of the Feathers Inn and an annual festival is held here to commemorate his contribution. He was born (in 1920) and raised in Ty'n Llan near the bridge and the church, and kept the nearby Crown garage. Along with his brother, Elis Gwyn, he founded 'Theatr y Gegin' in Criccieth and most Welsh people still remember him as the 'father' of Ifas y Tryc.
